THE SAN DOMINGO TREATY.—The protocol which was arranged in September last by President Baez and Gen. Babcock, and which was to have formed the basis of the treaty which followed, has excited considerable attention. The clause in which General Grant "promises privately to use all his influence in order that the idea of annexing the Dominican Republic to the U. S. may acquire such a degree of popularity among members of Congress as will be necessary for its accomplishment, and in which he offers to make no communication to that body on the subject until he shall be certain that it will be approved by a majority," is unfavorably interpreted in connection with the influence which he has endeavored to exercise with Congress in favor of the purchase of St. Domingo. It is, however, alleged in his behalf that the so-called protocol was drawn up by the St. Domingo chief, Baez, himself; the propositions were exclusively his; the ideas and language of the clause above quoted, promising Gen. Grant's influence, were those of Baez, not of Gen. Grant; the document itself was a simple private paper for the information of the President and Secretary of State; it does not bear the official signature of either Babcock or Baez, and when it was laid before the President he immediately rejected its propositions. It will be observed that one of the agreements of Gen. Grant, alleged in the above document, is to send no communication to Congress until he is certain it shall be approved by that body. Yet he did send in his communication to Congress when, as results have shown, so far from a certainty there was not much probability of such a result.—Baltimore Sun.

A SALUTARY VERDICT.—Julius T. Hartwell, a financial king pin of Boston, a market manipulator whose operations have been on a colossal scale, including Wall and State streets in their ramifications, was sentenced by a Boston Judge to pay $100,000 fine and remain in prison for five years in the Lenox jail. Neither wealth, nor family, nor social position, nor financial prestige mitigated the sentence. Eminent counsel pleaded in vain that he had previously borne a good character. Judge Lowell was inflexible, and brought the full force of the law to bear upon the author of the State street irregularities. We hail this verdict as an auspicious omen. It means that Boston, at least, is determined to regard and punish crime as such, that reckless financiers and speculators cannot carry on their high-handed operations under the very shadow of her courts and snap their fingers at the authorities. It means that one judge at least is determined to call things by their right names, and not to regard downright rascality as shrewdness and sharp practice merely. This severe punishment will unquestionably have a salutary effect on our Wall street circles, where men have almost come to laugh at the idea of any criminal punishment being administered for financial irregularities.—N. Y. Com.

COL. PICKETT VS. COL. FORNEY.—Col. Pickett is out to a caustic letter to Col. Forney, in reply to an article published by the latter in Saturday's Chronicle. The postscript to Col. Pickett's letter contains the following allusion to Gen. Butler:—"P. S.—I do not wish to take any liberties with the name of Gen. B. F. Butler, but he told me in the committee room that he had been a member of the 'Order of the Lowly Star.' Indeed, if I am not mistaken, he made the same statement in the House of Representatives. Now, we all know that Order represented the quintessence of filibustering. Its business was to organize those expeditions. As a member of that Order, Gen. Butler was an accessory before the fact, and participates criminally, according to all the rules of law and logic. Ergo, you call that gentleman a pirate, a robber and a murderer."

A LIVELY FALL.—A Kentucky paper tells the following:—"At the Planters' house, the other night, one of the guests sat down in a third story window to 'cool off,' and falling asleep, fell out. In his descent of sixty feet he went through the roof of a woodshed, badly shattering the whole structure, alighted on a porch, the floor of which he broke, and rolling over, knocked over and badly twisted a tin gutter pipe. The police on that beat heard the noise, and thinking that a safe had been blown open rushed to the spot, when they found the gentleman rubbing his eyes and yawning as if he had just awoke from a refreshing sleep. He invited the officers to take a drink, and after putting about four ounces of old Bourbon down his gullet, he retired to rest for the night—this time to his bed. The next morning he appeared at the breakfast table as if nothing had occurred, paid his bill after breakfast, and took his departure."

A USEFUL TABLE.—To aid farmers in arriving at accuracy in ascertaining the amount of land in different fields under cultivation, the following table is given by an agricultural contemporary: 5 yards wide by 98 yards long contains one acre; 10 yards wide by 484 yards long contains one acre; 20 yards wide by 242 yards long contains one acre; 40 yards wide by 121 yards long contains one acre; 60 yards wide by 80 yards long contains one acre; 80 yards wide by 60 yards long contains one acre; 100 yards wide by 484 yards long contains one acre; 120 yards wide by 396 yards long contains one acre; 140 yards wide by 324 yards long contains one acre; 160 yards wide by 270 yards long contains one acre; 180 yards wide by 220 yards long contains one acre; 200 yards wide by 180 yards long contains one acre; 220 yards wide by 154 yards long contains one acre; 240 yards wide by 132 yards long contains one acre; 260 yards wide by 110 yards long contains one acre; 280 yards wide by 98 yards long contains one acre; 300 yards wide by 80 yards long contains one acre; 320 yards wide by 72 yards long contains one acre; 340 yards wide by 66 yards long contains one acre; 360 yards wide by 60 yards long contains one acre; 380 yards wide by 55 yards long contains one acre; 400 yards wide by 50 yards long contains one acre; 420 yards wide by 46 yards long contains one acre; 440 yards wide by 42 yards long contains one acre; 460 yards wide by 39 yards long contains one acre; 480 yards wide by 36 yards long contains one acre; 500 yards wide by 33 yards long contains one acre; 520 yards wide by 30 yards long contains one acre; 540 yards wide by 28 yards long contains one acre; 560 yards wide by 26 yards long contains one acre; 580 yards wide by 24 yards long contains one acre; 600 yards wide by 22 yards long contains one acre; 620 yards wide by 20 yards long contains one acre; 640 yards wide by 19 yards long contains one acre; 660 yards wide by 18 yards long contains one acre; 680 yards wide by 17 yards long contains one acre; 700 yards wide by 16 yards long contains one acre; 720 yards wide by 15 yards long contains one acre; 740 yards wide by 14 yards long contains one acre; 760 yards wide by 13 yards long contains one acre; 780 yards wide by 12 yards long contains one acre; 800 yards wide by 11 yards long contains one acre; 820 yards wide by 10 yards long contains one acre; 840 yards wide by 9 yards long contains one acre; 860 yards wide by 8 yards long contains one acre; 880 yards wide by 7 yards long contains one acre; 900 yards wide by 6 yards long contains one acre; 920 yards wide by 5 yards long contains one acre; 940 yards wide by 4 yards long contains one acre; 960 yards wide by 3 yards long contains one acre; 980 yards wide by 2 yards long contains one acre; 1000 yards wide by 1 yard long contains one acre.

ENGLISH HOUNDS.—Capt. Wm Ashton, of Lancaster, England, who has purchased the farm of Dr. Payne near Greenwich, in this country, brought over with him sixteen genuine fox hounds from the best kennels in England. Since their arrival, the 'pack' has increased to 22. They are pronounced by judges to be the finest animals of the kind in this country.—Pr. Wm. Advocate.

Capt. Tom Leathers, of the steamboat Natchez, has been trying the experiment of annihilating time and space by running his craft from New Orleans to St. Louis in three days twenty-one hours and fifty-eight minutes. It was in 1844 the steamboat J. M. White made the same trip in three days twenty-three hours and nine minutes. Captain Leathers, it is now supposed, is the champion of the Mississippi.

From the first annual report of the Cincinnati Board of Trade we learn that that city ranks as the fourth manufacturing centre of the country, and Philadelphia as the second.
